

Free2move eSolutions and Allianz Partners collaborate on the e-mobility transition

Milan-Paris, 14 December 2022 – Allianz Partners, a world leader in B2B2C insurance and assistance services, will partner with Free2move eSolutions to manage the installation of its wall-mounted charging stations for electric vehicles.

Free2move eSolutions (a joint venture between car manufacturer Stellantis and energy company NHOA) was created to support and encourage the transition to electric mobility, playing an active role in achieving affordable and clean mobility by offering innovative and tailor-made products and services.

Customers who purchase a wallbox, whether an easyWallbox or an eProWallbox, at a Stellantis dealer will have the charging device installed at their home by an Allianz Partners technician. Allianz Partners is now the Free2move eSolutions wallbox installation provider across Italy and Germany, and in the near future other European countries.

Mathilde Lheureux, CEO of Free2move eSolutions, commented: “We are delighted to collaborate with Allianz Partners on the installation of our wallboxes sold at Stellantis dealers. Allianz Partners is a reliable and experienced partner, able to accompany our clients across the whole of Italy. They offer a smooth and seamless process for the installation of our easyWallbox and eProWallbox, both in stand-alone houses as well as in condominiums. This partnership is a major step towards bringing e-mobility to the homes of our customers.”

Laurent Floquet, CEO Mobility & Assistance at Allianz Partners added: “We are proud to put our professional and vetted network of electricians at the disposal of Free2move eSolutions, one of the leading players for charging solutions and services. We aim to be a trusted global partner for the e-mobility ecosystem, and accompany customers along the entire EV journey, including home charging. We are happy to be collaborating with Free2move eSolutions in Italy and Germany, and hopefully elsewhere in Europe in the future.”

Marco Gioieni, CEO Allianz Partners Italy, concluded: “We are very proud to see our Italian Business Unit be the frontrunner of this important partnership with Free2move eSolutions, and to facilitate the transition to e-mobility thanks to our experts and support to our business partners in this area.”
